TEEMER AND GAUDAUR.

Ready for the Great Race on Lake Maranacook To-Morrow.

Both Men Thoroughly Pleased With Their Training by the Lake.

" The Evening World" Correspondent Talks With Both Oarsmen To-Day-Teemer is the Best of Trim and Confident of Victory-Gaudaur Just as Sure of Winning-Even Money on the Contestants.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] WINTERCP, Me., Oct. 26.—The interest manifested by the inhabitants of Winthrop and, in fact, every place that THE EVENING World correspondent passed through on his way to Lake Maranacook, in the approaching championship contest between John Teemer, of McKeesport, Pa., and Jake Gandaur, of St. Louis, is warmed up to a

The attendance to-morrow promises to reach 10,000, and no pains have been spared to make the excursion a very pleasant one for those that will come to witness the great rowing contest. THE EVENING WORLD reporter arrived at Maranacook this morning, and, on entering Teemer's quarters, found Wallace Ross, looking hale and hearty, engaged in sewing buttons on his coat. Plaisted was peering into the wellknown chest that has shared his troubles on many a trip. Teemer, who had been strolling around the grounds, came in, and in response to a question, said:

"I never felt better in my life, and if I can't win to-morrow, then it is because the other man is faster. I have done some good work since I came down here, and, unless I fall off very fast, you will see me do some rowing to-morrow that will startle you. Of course, we are aware that Gaudaur is also rowing fast, but I think that old score must be settled up, and this is about the time to do it.

"Last senson he had quite a soft thing of it in his races with me, and no doubt continues to think that he will do it over again. He may and may not. I like my training quarters very well, and Mr. Swan, the proprietor of the hotel at which we are stopping, has been very kind to ua."

Plaisted them entered into the conversation by saying that there were heaps of trouble between Teemertown and Gaudaurtown, on account of some things that Ross had said in regard to Peter Conley's rowing. Ross asked Conley if he was trying to row fast about a week ago, when they went on the lake, and Conley replied that he was. Then Ross said that Conley worked harder and got less speed out of his boat than any man he ever saw. Now nothing short of a match race or blood will satisfy the Portland men. The relations between Teemer and Gaudaur are of the most friendly kind, as only the usual feeling of rivalry exists between them.

Teemer then called the writer's attention to his new Ruddock shell, which he had on the reck, and a finer piece of workmanship would be hard to find—and said:

"There is the boat that I defeated Hanlan with, and I thought that her equal could not be produced, yet this last one that he built me is lighter and faster. I have given them both a good trial and the new one is the better. So I will use her to-morrow in my race with Gaudaur."

It was then announced that 9,36 had arrived, the time for taking the usual morning walk, and Teemer at once prepared to go out

The party walked up the track in the direction of Winthrop, where Jake is boarding, and during the journey the writer had a good chance to judge how confident Teemer is of victory. He is in perfect condition and weighs 166 pounds in his rowing costume.

On the way up the track, which funs parallel with the lake, he pointed out the quarter, half mile and mile and one-half courses and figured out just how he expected to stand at each point.

As the one and one-half mile buoy was reached, which marks the turn of the course to be rowed to-morrow, Teemer and Ross retraced their steps toward the boat-house for the purpose of taking a spin.

Gaudaur was found looking after his boat, which George Lee and Pete Conley were rubbing down and polishing. Jake had on a light summer coat and a scarf around his neek, and certainly looked in great form. Gaudaur turned to The Evening World that "I have been looking for that cold that

Gaudaur turned to The Evening World man, and said:

"I have been looking for that cold that everybody said I was sure to get down here, but so far I have managed to pull through all right. I never had so much satisfaction out of a course of training in my boating career as I have had in this one. I have not missed a row all the time that I have been here, and as for my health, it never was better. The cool air doesn't seem to trouble me any. In fact, I rather like it, as I can go to work with a will, and I get some satisfaction out of it."

James Keenan and Peter Duryea, Teemer's backers, and J. A. St. John, of St. Louis, Gaudaur's backer, have not yet arrived, although they will be here late this afternoon.

There is considerable even money on the result of the race.

FAREWELL SUPPER TO SULLIVAN.

The Champion Is Entertained by a Few Bos

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]
BOSTON, Oct. 96.—A few of the best and most intimate friends of the champion, John L. Sullivan, were invited to the house of Sylvie Gookin, No. 30

Richfield street, Meeting-House Hill, last evening. Only about thirty-five people were present, half of

Only about thirty-five people were present, half of this number being of the gentler sex.

Among the familiar faces seen were the champion's father and mother, Jack Ashton, Sylvie Gookin and wife, John Barnet and wife, John Connors and wife, Nick Marshall and wife, James Daily, John Boister and wife, Mrs. Mary Lamen and daughter, Capt. Abbott, Ned Hayden, John B. Newman, Wm. J. Conley, Larry Kennedy, Johnny Boles, William Hogariy, Bob Caliahan, Mr. Lennon and wife, Al Stickney, Dick Gookin, Harry Kendall, Denny Morris and Mrs. Newman.

Arrangements have been made by Sullivan's friends to accompany the steamer on which he will sail and several tugs have been charted for that purpose. One of them will carry a brass cannon and a salute of sixty-two guns will be fired as the steamer passes the escorting fleet which will go down to the Boston Light.

President John B. Day, of the New York Base-ball Club, denied this morning the report that he had made any overtures to Detroit for the sale of Duniap, the crack second baseman of the "Wolverines," and said, furthermore, that no offer would be made for him by the New York Bail Club. Mr. Day added, how-ever, that Detroit would undoubtedly be willing to let Duniap go, for he had not given satisfaction for some time on account of his kicking proclivities.

trip, said that Mr. Garrett was simply carrying out a long entertained project to visit the Pacific coast and the City of Mexico, while he was free from important corporation and business interests.

Regarding Mr. Garrett's health, Dr. Barnard said: "I do not know a man who possesses a finer physique or better health than Mr. Garrett enjoys today, but he inherits from his father the characteristic of large blood vessels in the head. Mr. Garrett's family and friends have been solicitous to protect him from an attack of congestion of the brain or brain fever, of which he has been in imminent peril for some time."

DEMOCRATS FOR NICOLL.

An Organization Formed and a Mass-Meeting

A number of prominent Democrats who resent Boss Power's methods met this morning at the office of William E. Curtis, at 45 William street, and formed an Independent Democratic Nicoll and Martine Organiza-

Arrangements have been made to establish headquarters to-morrow in the neighborhood of Madison square and to hold a mass-meeting at Cooper Union on Friday evening next. It is expected that Samuel D. Babcock will preside and that George William Curtis, Joseph H. Choate, Gen. Francis C. Barlow, Horace E. Deming and other prominent gentlemen will speak.

The call for the meeting, with an authorized list of speakers, will be published in the morning papers.

CHARGED WITH SWINDLING.

Two Women Bring Queer Accusations Against

Metcalf, twenty-four years old, living at the Hotel Royal, whom charged with the larceny of she charged with the larceny of $500 by trick and device, Both women are related to the Metcalf family, of Boston.

Mrs. Shaw charged that she gave Miss Metcalf $300 to bet on horse races with, under the distinct understanding that A. J. Cassatt was to furnish the tips. She claims that Mr. Cassatt knew nothing of the arrangement, and that the whole operation was a swindle. Miss Metcalf denies the charge and makes counter charges of blackmail. The case will go on to-morrow.

the Queen's Jubilee, and that there is a plot on foot to kill Mr. Baifour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, on his visit to Birmingham in November.

A newspaper cutting referring to a rumor that an attempt would be made to assassinate Mr. Balfour at Birmingham has been found in the pocket of Michael Hawkins.

Testimony taken showed that Cohen was a constant visitor at the house of Melville, the London agent of the Clan-na-Gael, also that he consorted in America with Michael Hawkins, living at No. 1939 North Second Sireet, Philadelpha, and with Stack, O'Malley and other men the London police know to be members of the Clan-na-Gael. The evidence so far, however, is inaufficient to justify the making of any arrests here. It was proved that the man's death was due to bronchitis, and a verdict was given that he died from natural causes.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] IVY CITY RACE TRACE, WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—This is the second day of the National Jockey Club races. It is is a colu, gray, Novemberish kind of day, with heavy wraps and overcoats decidedly a comfort. The wind is from the east, which brings at frequent intervals spiteful little showers of rain that blow directly into the stand. There is a large attendance, however, including many ladies, and the track, although damp, is fairly fast.

The feature of the racing to-day was the duel, as it were, between McLaughlin and Garrison. They riding against each other in the third and fourth races, "Jimmy" on Kingston and Hanover, and the "Snapper" on Stuyvesant and Eolian. The fight was a drawn one. McLaughlin winning with Kingston, while Eolian beat Hanover. McLaughlin, however, had some consolation, as he had previously ridden the winners of the first and second races, Fordham and Richmond, and rode the last on the Knight of Ellerslie.

He ran five times without winning as a two-year-old, as a three-year-old he only won twice out of eighteen starts, one of which was the Palisade stakes at Monmouth Park. He was then sold to the late George Sutifier, for whom he won twice out of nine starts. THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE Enthusiasm Over the Nomination of Nicoll and Martine.

County Democracy Men Who Will Bolt From Fellows.

Democratic State Committeemen Would Like the Man of Judgments to Withdraw from the Ticket-Boss Power Hard at Work-Influence Brought to Bear on Mr. Martine to Induce Him to Decline the Republican Nomination-Perhaps He Will be Knifed, Too, if He Declines to Do So-Expressions of Sentiment All Over the City.

has enthusiasm so wide-spread and deep been awakened by local political candidates as that with which the nomination of Mr. Martine has been received. Popular feeling has triumphed, it is felt, and the people's candidates for District-Attorney and for Judge of the new Criminal Court have been indorsed and nominated by the Republican County Convention. The nominations are the topic of the day at hotels and public resorts. The action of the Republican convention is praised by every one except the friends of the boodlers and the bosses. Even the leaders of Tammany Hall and the County Democracy are discouraged, while the rank and file of the two machines are privately expressing the opinion that the "comvately expressing the opinion that the "combine" ticket will be defeated.

Col. John R. Fellows was seen at the Hoffman House this morning. He is expressing his opinion of Mr. Nicoll, and he also feels very much put out at Mr. Martine. Col. Fellows sees defeat staring him in the face, but he will not admit it.

Some of his friends are advising him to withdraw from the contest. The members of the Democratic State Committee would be pleased if he would withdraw.

A friend of Col. Fellows said: "Col. Fellows is not the kind of a man to get out of a race. I believe he will stick to his candidacy, although he might know that he will be defeated. I am sorry to see him in this fight."

Police Justice Power still feels confident that the Union ticket can be elected. He may be resting his hope on some sort of a deal. He will stop at nothing to elect Col. Fellows.

BOSS POWER AT WORK.

The leaders of the County Democracy are exerting their influence with Mr. Martine to-day to prevail upon him to decline the Republican nomination. Police Justice Power has threatened to cut Martine's name, while some leaders of the County Democracy are in favor of taking his name off the ticket in case he refuses to be thus dictated to.

Mr. Martine's friends insist that he was nominated by the United Democracy without solicitation on his part, and are enjoying a laugh at the writhings of Power and Fellows and their Imachmen. Their threats seem to Mr. Martine's friends ludicrous in the extreme. There is no doubt that Mr. Martine will accept the indorsement of the Republicans, which came unasked and unsought.

Tammany leaders lay on the County Democracy chiefs all the blame for getting the United Democracy into such a mess. They say that the withdrawal of Mr. Martine from the ticket would be a complete surrender, and it is certain that they will not consent to it. Several of the leaders have suggested warmly that Boss Power should ask Col. Fellows to decline the nomination which has brought both wings of the city Democracy into such a muddle. If Col. Fellows, reading the handwriting so brilliantly illuminating the political wall, should get out, it would relieve both Tammany and the "Counties" of much embarrassment and probably result in the election of the entire Union ticket.

So far as Tammany is concerned, her leader would be only too glad to receive word of Col. Fellows's declination.

Meantime the friends of De Lancey Nicoll, who are legion in both factions of Democracy are chuckling at the failure of the friends of Jacob Sharp, John Keenan and the other "boodle" exiles in their attempts to shelve the man who was acceptable to all Tammany and to a large minority of the County Democracy. EMORY W. UNGER OUT FOR NICOLL.

EMORY W. UNGER OUT FOR NICOLL.

Henry W. Unger, who is Secretary of the County Democracy organization in the Twentieth Assembly District, has come out for Mr. Nicoll for District. Attorney and is making an active canvass in his behalf. His action has created considerable excitement in the district organization and threatens to disrupt it, as he numbers among his personal followers a majority of the committeemen, who will undoubtedly cast their fortunes with him. He is also Secretary of the district Democratic club, which includes in its membership of 250 some of the most prominent Democratin in the ward, all of whom favor De Lancey Nicoll as against the Man of Judgments. Mr. Unger, who is now engaged in the practice of law, was stenographic secretary of the Grand Jury during the entire period covered by the boodle prosecutions. He said to-day to an Eventary Would reporter "Before the Democratic Convention assembled I made a personal canvass among some of our best business men and financiers with a view to their making an independent nomination of Mr. Nicoll for District-Attorney and every man whom I then may was not alone heartily in favor of the movem int, but was willing to take an active part in it. The attitude of the Democratic politicians at the time, however, was so favorable that we bemocratic politicians at the time, however, was so favorable that we thought such a nomination inexpedient and dropped it for the time being. Among these gentlemen was William A. Wheelook, President of the Central National Bank, a dyed-in-the-wool Republican, who said although he never voted for a Democratin his life, yet in the present campaign his ballot would count for De Lancey Nicoll.

Union League Club, expressed himself in still stronger language.

Following are expressions of opinion concerning the nominations which were obtained to-day by Evening World reporters.

Police Commissioners French and McClave were in ecstasies over the nominations, and declared that any other action by the convention would have been suicidal. "The stone that the Democratic builders rejected," said Mr. French, "has become the chief in the corner of the temple of the people's rights. Nicoll will win in a canter."

John J. O'Brien, Chief of the Bureau of Elections—The spirit of independence in local politics is growing very rapidly and will be felt severely in some quarters this fall.

will be felt severely in some quarters this fall.

Police Commissioner Porter thought the canvass of Nicoll would be sharp and that he would give Col. Fellows a lively tussle.

Police Commissioner Voorhis could see no reason why the entire Democratic ticket should not be successful.

Folice Inspector Steers—There can be but one result. Nicoll will be elected.

Henry George, jr.—Post will be the next District-Attorney. Fellows is a dead cock in the pit with Nicoll in the field.

William McCabe, United Labor candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen—Post will win to a certainty. Nicoll is a good man, but we think we can beat him.

James McLaughlin, of the United Labor party—Post will be elected. Fellows don't count.

Chairman John McMackin, of the United Labor party—Mr. Nicoll is a good man; so is Mr. Post, and we propose to elect our man.

Edward Farrell, of the United Labor party—It will be Post or Nicoll, with the chances in favor of Post.

Louis F. Post—Personally I like Mr. Nicoll, but I do not think he is as strong a candidate as his friends imagine.

THE FOREMAN OF JARHNE'S JURY.

the findence with Mr. Martine to day to prevail upon him to decline the Republican nomination. Police Justice Power has threatened to cut Martine's name, while some leaders of the County Democracy are in favor of taking his name off the ticket in case he refuses to be thus dictated to.

Mr. Charles B. Fosdick, foreman of the jury in the Jaehne trial—I was going to write to Nicoll to-day congratulating him. I don't think there are two men in the city better suited to the offices for which they are nominated than Martine and Nicoll. I have a high regard for Mr. Nicoll. personally, and a still higher regard for his legal ability. I have had every opportunity legal ability. I have had every opportunity to know them intimately, and admire their determination in the boodle trials. Mr. Nicoll is one of the most extraordinary young men in the legal profession, calm, cautious and keen. I shall do everything in my power to secure his election. my power to secure his election. I am not a Democrat, but I am not a partisan Republican.

Mr. William A. Wheelock, one of the directors of the Central National Bank, and one of the jury in the Sharp trial—I am unqualifiedly for Nicoll and Martine. What I saw of them was enough to make me willing to give them all the support I can.

Joseph H. Brown, of Brown, Draper & Co., foreman of the Grand Jury which indicted the Boodle Aldermen—I say that, as a Republican, I think the party has done perfectly right in nominating Mr. Martine and Mr. Nicoll. I had every opportunity for gauging the ability of these men in their official capacity, and I think they showed great integrity, legal acumen and earnestness. They worked with their gloves off, notwithstanding the almost universally expressed opinion that the efforts of the Grand Jury to check the disturbances caused by the boy-cotters and Anarchists would be defeated in the District-Attorney's office, we were gradually led to understand that none of our citizens were more determined in furthering the efforts of the jury than Mr. Martine and Mr. Nicoll. I think they should receive the support of citizens, irrespective of party.

Ex-Comptroller Frederick P. Olcott—I

zens, irrespective of party. Ex-Comptroller Frederick P. Olcott—I think Mr. Nicoll is a strong young man. THE BEST THING THEY COULD DO.

John D. Jones, President of the Atlantic Mutual Insurance Company, who has grown gray in Democracy—The nomination of young Nicoll was the best thing the Republicans could do. It will purify the Democratic party. The boodlers may stay out and the purification will go on. Nicoll is a brilliant young man and will get the votes of all Democrats who seek good government rather than party power in municipal matters.

—I have known De Lancey Nicoll since his boyhood and esteem nim highly. He did nobly against big men in the boodle trials.

He would make and will make an exceptional District-Attorney.

Charles M. Fry, President of the Bank of New York—I think highly of Mr. Nicoll as he has appeared officially, and admire the pluck and ability displayed in the late prosecutions. I mistrust the Republicans, but think Mr. Nicoll will receive a large Demogratic vote.

but think Mr. Neoli will receive a large Democratic vote.
Fred N. Lawrence, ex-President of the Stock Exchange, a County Democrat—De Lancey Nicoli is one of the cleverest young men in this or any other country, and he will be elected surely if the people know their interests. He has sacrificed no principle in accepting as a self-proclaimed Democrat the nomination of Republicans. He is a hardworking as well as a brilliant man, and will working as well as a brilliant man, and will get lots of Democratic votes.

BALTIMORE'S ELECTION.

Victory Claimed by Both Republicans and Democrats.

being polled to-day, the heaviest, it is estimated, up to this hour that was ever known in the history of Baltimore, showing how intense is the interest that is being felt in the contest. An unusual quiet prevails, which by many is considered ominous. Business centres are in many eases almost deserted, and leading merch are congregated in the neighborhood of polling places.

The colored vote is coming in all its strength, and in one ward as many colored votes were taken in up to 10 o'clock as during the whole of the day of last election.

The heavy vest-pocket vote being car nakes it difficult to decide which side is shead in the 180 precincts. At 6 o'clock this morning there were hur dreds in line waiting for the polling places to open. Ticket-holders are numerous, and intercept persons some distance from the polls. This being the first time for eight years that the Republicans have had a regular outand-out nomination, and realizing the important bearing a victory on their part would have in national affairs, they seem to be exerting their utmost strength, but no disorder of any kind has occurred up to 19 o'clock and the indications are that it will be an earnest and quiet contest and that Latrobe's majority will be about 1,500.

Mr. Bartlett, the Republican candidate for Mayor, was seen about noon and says he ear form no opinion as to the result of the election from what he could learn of its progress up to that time. He says that he personally is taking no very active part in the contest and is attending to his regular business todreds in line waiting for the polling places to up to that time. He says that he personally is taking no very active part in the contest, and is attending to his regular business today the same as usual.

At the Democratic and Republican head quarters it is very quiet, as all the workars are busy in their various wards. They state at Republican headquarters that the election is being conducted with reasonable fairness. No disorder of any account has as yet occurred to show that today is different from any ordinary election. Both sides are hopeful, but none of the acknowledged authorities are expressing themselves very decidedly, the vest-posite vote and the colored vote being indefinite quantities and preventing comparisons with former elections.
